

INVITATION

The Suspects

Lady Winifred Darkmore – the lady of the manor.
A typical English countrywoman – robust and unflappable.
Suggested costume: Equestrian look, with boots and riding crop.

Hudson – despite his youth, the perfect butler:
distinguished, discreet, and miraculously always right
there when you need him.
Suggested costume: Suit, striped waistcoat, bow tie.

Helen Stirren – the murder victim's elegant wife.
Once a famous film star, these days she only plays supporting roles.
Suggested costume: Black skirt suit, pearl necklace, high heels.

Sean Pommery – very attractive young leading man,
so far only seen in second-rate adventure movies.
Desperate to make it into the premier league.
Suggested costume: Black turtleneck/roll neck pullover,
plenty of hair gel.

Shirley Steptoe – blond hair, wide-eyed. Former child star with amazing tap-dancing skills. Hoping for a comeback.
Suggested costume: Cute frilly dress, fluttering eyelashes.

Monsieur Charles – lively hair stylist and makeup artist with fake French accent. The murder victim's close confidant.
Suggested costume: Bright yellow sleeveless sweater, colourful silk cravat, impeccable moustache.

Joan Crayford – British film star. A vivacious brunette, she's always cast in the role of femme fatale.
Suggested costume: Low-cut evening dress, cigarette holder.

Humphrey Bogwart – greying movie star whose fame is fading fast – something he tries hard to disguise.
Suggested costume: Trench coat and fedora.

Police Summons

Dear _____

As you know, last night, the famous film director, Oscar Wilder, was brutally stabbed to death.

Though you're no doubt still reeling from this violent turn of events, I must ask you to come to the Great Dining Hall of Castle Darkmore

on _____ at _____ pm

Address: _____

_____ to help us with our investigations.

You will play the role of:

_____ I am counting on your full support.

Kind regards,

C. G. Watson

(Chief Inspector)

You're a guest at a Murder Mystery Dinner Party.

In the course of the evening, it will become clear that one of the guests is the murderer. Your task is to track down the killer – or escape detection by the other guests.

Two small tips to make sure the evening is a success:

- Dress to suit your role
- Try to be punctual!

For more marvellous murder mystery games, visit our website: www.murder-for-dinner.com

Murder Mystery Dinner Party

The Curse of the Green Lady

Castle Darkmore is the perfect location to shoot a horror film. Within its crumbling walls, there's plenty of rusty armour, creaking doors – and, above all, a genuine ghost.

In the 16th century, the unfortunate Lady Darkmore fell to her death here, treacherously murdered by her unfaithful husband. As she lay dying, Lady Darkmore cursed the house, and threatened all adulterers within its walls with certain death.

One stormy winter's night in 1953, a film crew staying at the ancient castle to shoot a movie come upon a terrible sight: Oscar Wilder, the despotic film director and notorious ladies' man, has been brutally stabbed to death. In his room are clear signs that just before his death, he had a female visitor – and it wasn't his wife.

Intriguingly, his bedroom door is bolted from the inside. And on the brocade robe of the ghostly Green Lady, which is on display in the castle tower, there are traces of fresh blood...

Who murdered Oscar Wilder? Was it the phantom Lady? Or was it a flesh-and-blood killer?